

Webpublisher Report

11/29/20

Hello fellow addicts. This is my report for the December area. It will be short and sweet. There is still serious ongoing issues with the website at the regional level. I have communicated my lack of being able to access much and at times all of the website. They are working on repairing the issue. Because of the amount of work required of them to resolve the issues with the website, they have postponed the webservant training. I will continue to check in with them. I have submitted via email our most current meeting list.

In loving service,

Lindsey H., Webpublisher
